

Revering God's Name

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:7; Leviticus 19:12; Matthew 5:33-37; 6:5-9; Luke 6:46.

God's Third Commandment to His people was that they not take His name "in vain." To use God's name lightly, cheaply or irreverently is to dishonor Him and us.—Exodus 20:7.

God's Son, reinforcing this commandment, told people they must not profane the name of God, or of any being or object in His domain, for it all belongs to God.—Matthew 5:33-37.

"And when ye pray," said Christ, "ye shall not be as the hypocrites; for they love to stand and pray in the synagogues and . . . streets that they may be seen."—Matthew 6:5.

"When thou prayest, enter into thine inner chamber," figuratively if not literally, "and . . . pray to Thy Father Who is in secret."—Matthew 6:6. GOLDEN TEXT: Matthew 6:9.

Lesson: Respect For God's Name

THE THIRD Commandment prohibits the irreverent use of God's name.

It does not prohibit swearing, but it does prohibit profanity.

What is the difference between the two?

The word "profane" comes from the Latin, meaning "before (outside of) the temple." Thus it is not sacred, but common and—ultimately—disregarding of anything holy.

Profanity has come to mean, therefore, any irreverent, common or cheap usage of the name of God or of God's Son. Often this is called swearing.

Swearing, however, is not always cheap or irreverent. On the contrary, some of the most solemn and holy occurrences of life are accompanied by swearing of a different type. The president of our country swears when he enters into that office. So do witnesses in our courts of law.

For this custom we find Biblical basis. D. Martyn Lloyd-Jones in "Studies in the Sermon on the Mount," cites the example of the holy Abraham extracting an oath from his servant regarding the finding of a wife for his son (Genesis 24:1-8). He also cites the instance of Jesus on trial; only after the high priest charged him with an oath did He reply (Matthew 26:63-64). In Hebrews 6:16-20, we find a reference to God Himself taking an oath, as a confirmation, an end to strife and a reassuring consolation.

When Christ says to "Swear not at all," He elaborates that His meaning is not to profane any object or creature, for all belong to God.

To take the name of the Lord "in vain" can have two meanings, as G. A. Chadwick points out ("Peloubet's Select Notes," pp. 30-31). It can mean "uselessly" or "falsely."

The fundamental importance of the way in which God's name is aid. His sermons are criticized as much too long or too short. He steps on "influential toes" to right some glaring wrong.

"Next to a teacher, he is paid as low as the law allows. He seldom takes the bows, but takes all the brickbats for his share."

He freely gives, to all who ask, his labor and his love. And brings into our hearts and homes the peace of God above."

treated is allied to the usage of names in ancient times. Nowadays, as Shakespeare comments, "What's in a name;" it has no real connection with the person who bears it, that is, it tells nothing of the person's character or history, but only serves to distinguish him from others.

In ancient times, on the other hand, a man's name meant his reputation; it also meant his authority or dominion. Finally, it often indicated his personality or character, as, for example, David came to mean "beloved." Thus God's name means His revealed authority and character—it really means God Himself.

In the Lord's Prayer, we petition for God's name to be kept holy ("Hallowed be Thy name"). This becomes even more meaningful for us when we observe that we are natural imitators, and that whatever we think about God, we ourselves are apt to become, as much as possible, the more we hallow God's name, the more holy our lives will become.

In the reference in Luke 6:46, we find still a different meaning of taking the Lord's name in vain. Giving lip service to God while acting against His wishes is hypocrisy. In Amos 5 and Isaiah 58 we find dramatic references to God's displeasure with ritual holiness unaccompanied by holy living.

Folks Call Him "Mr. America"

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, Associated Press Religion Writer

The local folk call him "Mister America."

Dr. Stanley G. Sturges towers above them—at 6 feet 4 in., long-limbed man in white among a population that averages only 5-foot-2. Sometimes the children crowd around him just to stare.

He is probably the tallest man in Nepal's remote Valley of the Seven Cities, and he and his wife are the only Western Christians in their village.

He also is the only regular doctor serving about 500,000 people in an area of 4,500 square miles in the foothills of the Himalayan Mountains.

"It's the first exposure they've had to Western medicine," he said. "But we've looked on that as part of the game in a pioneer assignment like this."

His station is in a valley 4,700 feet above sea level at the roadhead where climbers began their ascent for Mount Everest. Their trail goes by his hospital door.

Dr. Sturges, from Redlands, Calif., was back in the states this week for a series of consultations with medical authorities and mistaken modern medical care to a region that until five years ago went without it.

They've built a 22-bed hospital, with native help, in the village of Banepa, and won the trust of the aloof dwellers in the outlying highlands where Dr. Sturges visits the sick by jeep or afoot.

To carry out his mission, he has had to be carpenter, mechanic, plumber and diplomat. He has had to appease local gods and overcome suspicions. He has given blood from his own arm to save a patient while operating on him.

"There are a lot of challenges," he said. "But we've looked on that as part of the game in a pioneer assignment like this."

Dr. Sturges and his wife, whom he met while they were college students went to Nepal in 1957, and against heavy obstacles, started a mobile clinic. The Sturges' have four children.

Only Two Official Cancer Cures

THE Pennsylvania Division of the American Cancer Society yesterday issued a statement in which it said it has investigated diagnosis and treatments offered to patients at Crescon General Clinic and has found "no evidence of any objective benefit in treatment of cancer, nor evidence that diagnosis by these means is reliable in detecting cancer in humans."

The society said it issued the statement in response to questions from members of the public concerning the clinic as a cancer detection and treatment center.

It concluded: "The American Cancer Society's position is that there are still no cures for cancer except radiation and surgery, and that the best diagnosis and treatment of cancer can be obtained from, or through referral by your family physician."

"If you have no regular family physician, you can obtain the names of physicians who examine for and treat cancer from your unit of the American Cancer Society or from your county medical society."

Ryder Seeks Reelection To Schools Post

HONESDALE — A candidate for re-election to a second four-year term as Wayne County superintendent of schools is Paul T. Ryder, who this week announced that he is seeking to be returned to the office he has held since July, 1958.

"If re-elected," Ryder said to the Wayne County School Board of Directors at the January meeting, "I would recommend Assistant Superintendent John Sutton, of Waymart, for reappointment to the post he now holds." Sutton was named to the office in December, 1960.

Ryder became assistant county superintendent in September, 1949, and after serving for nine years in the position, succeeded Homer B. Ammerman in the office of superintendent upon the latter's retirement in July, 1958.

A former principal of Greene-Dreher Joint School, Newfoundland, Ryder received his bachelor's degree at the University of Pennsylvania; his masters' degree at Pennsylvania State University; and has done additional graduate work in educational administration and supervision at Duke University, Cornell University, and New York University.

ESSC Graduate

Sutton was graduated from East Stroudsburg State College, and holds a masters degree from Lehigh University. He began his professional career at South Canaan in Wayne County and was principal at Hop Bottom and Elizabethtown before assuming his present position in the county office.

Falcons, Hawks Plan Merger Meet

EXECUTIVE officers of the Falcons and Falcon drum and bugle corps will meet today at 3 p.m. in the American Legion Home, East Stroudsburg to discuss final plans for the two corps to merge.

At a recent meeting of the Hawks the members voted in favor of the merger. The Falcons also voted unanimously for the merger at their last meeting.

The meeting today will iron out the small differences between the two units so the two corps can begin working as one as soon as possible.

Merger of the two units will give the area a much larger representation and will comprise one of the largest corps in this section of Pennsylvania.

The new corps will represent Thomas P. Lambert Post 2540, VFW, Stroudsburg, and George N. Kemp Post 346, American Legion, East Stroudsburg.

The merging of the two units will create many openings for people interested in playing a drum or bugle. There will also be openings in the color guard.

$947,077 Poured Into Area Welfare

(Record Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG — Public welfare programs of one kind or another in Monroe County during the past fiscal year received $947,077 in state and federal funds, a check with the State Department of Public Welfare revealed yesterday.

(This represents an increase incidentally of $164,743 when compared with the preceding fiscal year during which the county received $782,334 for welfare programs.)

How was the money spent in the county? In general terms, it ran something like this: public assistance (relief) — $511,791; mental health program work — $325,884; general and special hospital services in the county — $88,402; children and youth services — $19,337, and services to the blind — $1,663.

A breakdown of these expenditures during the year in the county shows for example that of the $325,884 spent on mental health program work, $255,568 was underwritten by the state for care, treatment and maintenance of Monroe counties in state-owned mental hospital facilities; $3,516 for the care of mentally ill and retarded persons in non-state-owned facilities; $58,983 for the care of mentally retarded children from the county in state-owned schools, and $7,817 for the care of mentally retarded in private facilities.

Pocono Pines Woman Finds Folks Honest

POCONO PINES — When Mrs. Roger Moyer lost her wallet containing cash and valuable papers in a Stroudsburg market last Saturday, she gave up hopes of ever seeing it again.

However, a postcard arrived this week, noting that the wallet had been found and would be returned if Mrs. Moyer called at 865 Grove Street, Stroudsburg, the residence of Albert McCuskey.

"I never thought I'd get the wallet back, much less all it contained," Mrs. Moyer said. "But the McCuskeys returned it to me intact. It's wonderful to know there are still people as honest as that in this world."

Opera Star Is Commended By Regional Youth Group

GREENTOWN — An advertisement placed in a New York paper, costing more than $2,000 evoked an editorial which appeared in The Daily Record under the heading "I Am Not Afraid." This same editorial was the reason for a "golden letter" of commendation from the Greentown - Newfoundland - South Sterling Youth Fellowship this week.

The letter went to Rosalind Elias, a 27-year-old Metropolitan Opera Star who listed her reasons for believing implicitly in her country.

The courageous testimony in the advertisement and editorial brought a response from the area young people, who weekly write letters thanking those who render special services of courage, thoughtfulness, bravery, or "just plain Christian living."

During the program at Hemlock Grove Methodist Church, there was a study of "The meaning of sex in the Christian life." Rev. Larry Lindemuth, Jane Beehn and James Hinton took part in the program which dealt with the call to responsible freedom for today's youth.

"The boy or girl who really loves God doesn't need rules to tell him what decision to make," Rev. Mr. Lindemuth pointed out.

During the business session at which Donna Bartleson presided, the young people were urged to make a special effort to attend youth Sunday services in their churches on January 28.

Arthur Frey was welcomed as a new advisor of the unit. Plans were discussed for a swimming party for the February social activity. Fred Kersey reported on the successful roller skating party held during the month of January.

The Jan. 28 meeting at Hemlock Grove will concern "Discipline in the Home."

Budget Tricks

The Rural Electrification Administration, which began life as a means of stringing power lines to the remote farmers not yet served by commercial power companies, has come a long way. Today, it serves urban consumers and even industries.

All organizations grow if they can, and REA has made quite a record of growth. It's no wonder, when you consider that REA co-ops can borrow money from the Government at less than it costs the Government to borrow it, and the taxpayer makes up the difference. And then REA co-ops enjoy tax exemptions on their earnings on top of that.

Many Congressmen are becoming a little impatient with REA—because it competes with tax-paying businesses and pays only token taxes. Those by REA co-ops are in no way different from customers of ordinary electric companies, but get their electricity virtually tax-free. This is discrimination between citizens.

With almost every part of the U.S.

now electrified, and with REA co-ops showing cash surpluses, it is probable that Congressmen looking for budget items to trim might sooner or later zero in on REA's unusual privilege of borrowing from the Treasury.

To prevent this from happening and to conceal the growth of REA, a new proposal is now being made. It's tricky, but really fairly easy to understand.

As things stand now, Congress must authorize the amount of new REA loans in the Federal budget. As loans and interest are repaid, the money goes direct to the Treasury.

The new scheme would allow repayments and interest to go to REA, and only loans exceeding these collections would have to be approved by Congress. This would assure that Congress could not cut back REA's lending power sharply, and it would deceive people about how much the REA was actually lending.

Really, it's a proposal to let the REA keep two sets of books—a practice long associated with financial skulduggery.

Boon To Safer Highways

Pennsylvania's new radar law successfully has met its first test in court. We have every confidence its legality also will be upheld in the appeal which the defendant in the case has indicated he will take.

In rejecting the challenge of the defendant, an Irwin truck driver arrested on the Turnpike for speeding after being clocked with radar by State Police, the court, in our opinion, not only was well grounded in law but also commendably recognized the validity of new law enforcement tools made necessary by changing times.

The defendant based his case in seeking to have the law ruled unconstitutional on the contention that the radar instrument while in operation is stationary and thus is in conflict with a section of state's motor vehicle code which requires police to clock a motorist over a distance of a quarter of a mile before a charge of speeding may be brought against him.

To this the court held that it was absurd to maintain that the Legislature would put into effect a law which could not be enforced. Therefore, it continued, the lawmakers clearly intended the section pertaining to radar to operate independently of those in apparent conflict in the motor vehicle code.

More importantly, however, the court called upon previous decisions from the appellate bench once again to uphold the validity of mechanical devices—such as radar—in law enforcement. To have ruled otherwise would have deprived state police of one of their most important weapons, long in use by police of other states, in their war on speeding on the highways.

An unfavorable court decision would have denied State Police the further use of this tool at a time when there is evidence the highway safety program—radar was one of its anchors—which Governor Lawrence fought through the last session of the Legislature is beginning to pay off.

Preliminary figures for the year, for instance, show that deaths on Pennsylvania highways during 1961 dropped 130 from the previous year's total to enable the commonwealth to post the lowest traffic fatality rate of the eight largest states in the nation. The 1,479 persons who died in traffic mishaps on the highways was by far the smallest number in any year since the end of World War II.

Moreover, the state's rate of traffic fatalities during the year averaged 3.4 per hundred million miles traveled as compared to the national average of 5.5 deaths. There are states which will post lower fatal accident totals for the year, but this will be because they are smaller.

While the degree to which radar, in use only since September, contributed to this record may be difficult to determine, but there should be no doubt that it played an important role. At the very least, it served as a silent but constant reminder to drivers that traffic regulations were being more strictly enforced.

Writes On Subsidies

Editor, The Daily Record: Thank you so much for your editorial in the Daily Record re the subsidy of farmers.

However you did not go far enough nor were you strong enough in your criticism of this unconscionable farce and unwarranted dictation of the life of the American consumer in the area of price controls. For that is what it really is, the control of prices in the main articles of subsistence.

During the late campaign the Democrats made much of the so-called "Benson Plan." That was fallacious in all aspects for, as Senator Joseph Clark, in a TV conversation with Senator Hugh Scott and Secretary Freeman, hotly stated "It is not the Benson Plan. It is the Truman Plan." (Sunday Feb. 5, 1961). But it goes even further back than the days of Truman for the whole set-up was laid down under the administration of Roosevelt with Henry Wallace's program of the "plough under" not only foods but, if you recall "the little pigs" and the mooted so-called "Potato Act" which has never been either rigorously enforced or repealed.

As you noted, the farmer (not so much the "little man" whom this program is supposed to help, but the great farms of from 100-thousands of acres,) really gets the benefits had he goes from one subsidized crop to another, sometimes simultaneously. By this I mean he is paid to take away wheat production and receives payment for same but instead of letting the acreage lie fallow, as is the presumed intent of the subsidy, he goes into another surplus crop for which he later gets paid for not growing.

Also, on the allotted acreage he is now able to grow as much as he did on the entire acreage before, due to improved chemicals and farming methods. Thus he is being paid double in that he gets the high prices set by the government for the crops he does grow and also paid for the crops he doesn't grow.

And we, the consumer, pay through the nose with complaints and nothing more. No farmer, big or little, should be permitted to be subsidized for not growing more than one of the supported crops.

This whole program of supposed "price support" needs a most exhaustive revamping for it is based on false premise to begin with and the execution of it is a near-scandal.

One of our omissions was the summation of what we have on hand i. e. in storage, the cost of not only the products but the storage itself. To return to the TV conversation referred to above. See: Freeman said, and I quote: "To be specific—Feed grains mean a corn, sorghum, barely, oats that are all tied together in terms to their feed equivalent. If nothing is done under the present program, as the law now stands, we will be faced late next summer (1961) with several hundred millions of bushels of grain for which at the moment we have no storing space. We already have a million eight hundred thousand bushels of feed grain which are presently in storage."

At no time did either Senator Scott or Senator Clark ask what the cost of storage is but somewhere I have read that it is over a billion a month. If anyone has correct figures I shall be happy to be corrected if I am in error.

In the Herald Tribune of Sunday Jan. 21, 1962, Donaldd Rodgers says "In the first year of the Kennedy farm subsidies rose to $6.271 billion, an increase of $1.131 billion—but net farm income was up $1 billion . . . the taxpayer paid $1.13 billion to do it."

As a result: Consumption of milk dropped by 3 billion pounds while production of milk increased by 2 billion pounds because of higher prices paid by the government. "Thus," he continues, "at the end of 1961 the government had in storage: 165 million pounds of butter; 50 million pounds of cheese; 186 million pounds of non-fat dry-milk—thus the United States government has in storage more dairy foods than all the American people have in their refrigerators."

What the majority of people forget and the proponents of the farm program always fail to mention is the associated costs of (1) storage; (2) cost of transporting supplies to storage; to distributing points; to processing plants and the cost of processing itself. Neither do they say if the grains are damaged before storage to avoid spoilage. If that is done then the grains are nothing more than bulk for the subsistence value has been destroyed. (3) Nothing is ever said about the millions of bushels which most certainly have, through the years, become inedible and what is done with or about them.

Pork has recently been added to the free foods for the families on relief. Not for one moment do I begrudge those people one ounce of food of any kind, but in the last week pork, to the home consumer, has gone up five cents wholesale and beef has risen six cents in the past two weeks. Wholesale, that is. Peanuts, cotton, corn oil and heavens knows what else is on the "price support" list and who, in heaven's name, is to subsidize the workers in the lower brackets or those on fixed incomes? Mr. President, Secretary Freeman, Senators Scott and Clark and all else who have a finger in this pork barrel, what are you going to do about it?

There never was nor will there ever be as much actual money as is being tossed to a selected group and since that is the case how is the value of our paper dollar to be maintained and sustained? I ask humbly and honestly: HOW? Certainly not by the proposed withdrawal of the silver backing as was done with the gold backing.

Truly concerned for editor

On River Basin Plan

Editor, The Daily Record:

For the encouragement of, among other things, the Delaware Basin plan and regional planning, you have the gratitude and support of many citizens. Therefore, it is a little difficult to comprehend the inaccurate, inconsistent, and contradictory state of your editorial, "Frozen Assets," of Jan. 19th, 1962.

For example, you have said these holdings (federal) produce very little income. Even if you meant only real consumer goods and services, it would be a vastly wrong statement. Consider the money spent by people visiting national parks, the value of the timber harvested from national forests, the tangible and intangible values of water and protected watersheds on federal holdings, and the recreational values.

The proposed Tock's Island Recreational Area will be recalled here, to jar your memory a bit.

One could mention the monies paid in lieu of taxes by both national and state forests to local governments for the upkeep of roads and for other services. There are the incomes of federal payrollees including those of personnel on military stations, e.g., Tobyhanna. Certainly, the effect on the area economy is significant, and few here would advocate its abandonment on the basis of fiscal soundness.

Another Broker's Opinion

Editor, The Daily Record:

The writer was shocked to read the account of the talk given before the Mount Pocono Rotary Club in connection with insurance purchased by the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools. The figures quoted are inaccurate in one case and meaningless in another case.

The facts surrounding the selection of an insurance broker to advise the Pocono Joint School District are these: Insurance agents of the county, including that speaker, were invited to discuss their qualifications before the entire school board, and after due deliberation our agency was selected to advise the joint school district on the insurance requirements.

After all necessary engineering services were performed a detailed, written report was placed in the hands of the board. This report gave costs for proper insurance protection in various types of insurance companies.

After deliberation by the board a decision was made to place the fire insurance in one master policy with 75 per cent participation by a number of local insurance agents who are residents of the Pocono Joint School District. The insurance company selected and approved by the board is the largest fire and casualty insurance group in the United States with a surplus for the protection of policyholders in excess of $940,000,000.

The citizens of the school district have at stake over $3,500,000 worth of property. That any person should think of insuring such valuable property in any insurance companies but the most financially secure is unthinkable. Yet that is apparently what he and a recent correspondent suggest.

Let it be known once and for all that the power to assess a policyholder which mutual companies possess is the very cornerstone of their supposed strength! Should a mutual company not utilize that power, if they encounter financial difficulty, they are denying to themselves and their other policyholders the very remedy that they originally decided was necessary to meet their obligations in such times of stress.

Wouldn't it be a shortsighted decision by a board, charged with the responsibility of protecting public property, to insure in any organization where the matter of financial security has to be debated?

Statements that the board will waste large sums of money over the next three years are ridiculous. Just within the past year the capital stock insurance industry made available to public institutions such as schools, a new and improved method of insuring such property at tremendous savings from the normal method of insuring property.

The school directors wisely took advantage of this method and the substantial savings the plan offers.

In this connection it should be noted that this method of insuring has been used by the East Stroudsburg Area Joint Schools; the Pleasant Valley Joint School district; the County of Monroe; the General Hospital, and many schools in surrounding counties. All responsible insurance agents have recommended this economical form.

The writer has attended many meetings of different school boards over the past twelve years and in no case did I ever witness any political action or personal "horseplay". In my opinion, the school directors have conducted their deliberations on the purchase of insurance with honesty, sincerity and with strict adherence to sound business principles.

It Comes Closer

One speaks of war lightly these days. There is no war; yet there is a war. In fact, there are many wars, happening all over the Earth, in many forms—the war in the Congo over Katanga, the war in Algeria which knows no end, the prospective war between the Netherlands and Indonesia, all the trouble in Vietnam, the revolution in Laos, the movement of Red China into India, the movement of Castro over Latin America, the stalemated war between Israel and Egypt, and the uprising of Arab peoples against Nasser.

It is an endless war, and I have left out much that happened last week or last month, India moving into Goa, for example. Or the prospective battles between Red China and Soviet Russia.

These wars, if added up, represent a long chapter to the wars and revolutions which have started in about 1912 and have been continuous for half a century. Each generation speaks of those it witnesses and seems to forget the prolonged tale of carnage the end of which is not yet in sight.

That spying episode in southern Italy brought the war closer to home. The American contingents stationed at Taranto, a place unknown to most Americans, were engaged in quiet activities, hardly known to the outside world or even to the Italians. They lived quietly and labored noiselessly.

Now they are known to all the world because a Bulgarian MIG crashed among them. The MIG was spying on the Americans working with Italians under the authority of NATO.

This brings the war close to home and causes Americans to realize that there is a war, that their sons are engaged in war, that warlike enterprises are close at hand and that there is no use attempting to dodge the issue.

There undoubtedly were American parents last Saturday and Sunday who sat listening to the radio and television and watching the newspapers to hear the names of a son or a daughter, or for that matter, a grandchild who might have been killed in the Bulgarian incident. This is a normal consequence of war and tragic as it is, it must be expected.

One does not think that, if anything, it must only be a Bulgarian who can be maimed and killed. One only knows that what we thought was all ended in 1945 is right here now and that there is no end to this business of war, no end at all.

This, in effect, is the heritage of Stalin, the permanent war. He left a world at war and he aimed to keep it at war and no matter what we do in these years the stench of war remains with us and there is no end in sight.

Those who are so sure that a way out will be found miss the point that we are right there now. The war is upon us now and it is play-acting to believe that we can squirm out of it without damage.

Khrushchev recognizes the terror of the time and is desperately fighting to save time so that war may be averted. For war can destroy the Soviet Universal

State as it might destroy the United States. It is no longer a question which will be destroyed but which will survive. On that subject, nobody can give any assurance. Therefore, while Mao Tse-tung, who has nothing to pay but Chinese lives, is more willing to fight than Khrushchev, the latter must face the fact that war is not beneficial to Russia, can only do Russia harm, that Stalin may have been right in his day, but that day is not now and that the price of war is too high for Khrushchev.

This is where we stand at the moment of the Third World War when we are confronted by small nations that are leading the big ones and calling the turns. So Bulgaria is doing the spying for the Soviet Universal State, but this was done by Russian orders or by Bulgaria?

And is Bulgaria fully part of the Soviet Universal State or is it moving toward the national Communism of Tito or the Leninism of Mao Tse-tung?

The picture is not clear. The real experts are puzzled. Governments are puzzled. Only those are sure, who have no immediate responsibilities.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

A Saturday column usually isn't much of a strain. After sleeping late and a leisurely breakfast, few people are in a super-critical state. This morning is apt to be different, with all of you getting up early to see the man in orbit and unable to settle down to anything else until it does or doesn't happen.

One couple I'm sure will be up early are Frank and Bernetta Grimm because they have a certain personal interest in the whole business. Pooney taught at Muskingum College in New Concord, Ohio, before joining the athletic faculty at the local college, and Bernetta took special work there.

Pooney remembers Glen's Plumbing Shop, owned by the astronaut's father, very well and they have sort of a feeling for his background, even they don't personally remember John, himself.

But it seems as if all of us have developed a certain personal interest in each of the astronauts in turn. Whatever other qualities led to their selection, and however they may differ, they all seem to share an ability to communicate, so that there is a rapport set up between them and us.

They are extremely personable young men, but beyond that they are the kind a woman would like to adopt or marry, depending on her age; and a man admires—but doesn't envy.

So perhaps this column doesn't matter, after all. If all goes well, you'll be so jubilant you won't care about anything else; and if—but there can't be any other "if," not with all of us holding our breath and pushing and praying all at once.

Guidance Center Team Pools Resources To Help Troubled Child

How the team of psychiatrist, psychologist and social worker mobilizes to help a troubled child was demonstrated at the meeting of the directors of the Guidance Center of Northampton and Monroe Counties this week at the Easton Center.

Actual case histories, anonymous but real were presented by Mrs. Elizabeth Bech, chief social worker, and two assistants, Mrs. Ruth Valenzuela and Lee White, showing not only the work with the child but also with his parents, and other interested agencies.

Not all of the work is with children, Mrs. Bech pointed out in her analysis of the center's intake during the five-month period from Aug. 1 to Jan. 1, since adults are also under care. However there were 49 referrals during the period within the 3 to 18 year-old group by physicians, parents and school authorities.

Referrals made in Monroe County are seen within the week at the Easton Center if they are considered urgent, or within a two week period at the East Stroudsburg Center on East Brown St. If not, she said, The cases parallel the national average: about 70 per cent boys and 30 per cent girls. Once a child has begun treatment, there are few dropouts, she said.

Frequent staff meetings are held to study the cases, with all three "disciplines" pooling their resources to help. The psychiatrist carries the medical responsibility; the psychologist conducts the many tests and collects data, while the social workers screen requests and work with the children and parents.

Lee White outlined a typical day's work in the clinic with four patients: a boy considered "sissy," with no friends and unmanageable in school; a woman unable to do the simplest routine task without effort and suffering from hallucinations; a girl of 9 suffering from "Schoolphobia"; a boy whose mother died a narcotic addict who would not be reconciled to a stepmother; and others.

Mrs. Valenzuela outlined a long-term case study in which it has been necessary to have all three "disciplines" work with each member of the family, but which has resulted in improvement not only with the child under treatment but also in the family's relationship with younger children.

At the business meeting, Conrad Miller, president, J. C. Cohen Stroudsburg was named chairman of the finance committee on which Dr. Charlotte Jordan was also named. Other Monroe appointments included that of Mrs. Eugene Martin as co-chairman of public relations with Mrs. Eric Rhoden; Raymond Serfass as a member of the personnel practices committee and James Wertheimer as professional practices.

Dr. William Horwitz, psychiatrist and director of the center, was authorized to attend a three-day in-service training period in February at the Judge Baker Children's Clinic in Boston, Mass., a center for advanced techniques and therapy in working with the troubled child.

Newspaper Features Story Of Kin Of Dreher Family

A full page feature story with pictures in the Leaksville, N. C. News concerns Irish-Born Eric McQuitty and the story of his conversion at a Youth for Christ Rally and his rise in the ministry. It is of interest to local people because, the Rev. McQuitty's wife is the granddaughter of a local woman.

She is the former Dorothy Dreher, daughter of the late Amzi Dreher, an attorney with Bossard and Dreher, in Baltimore, Md., and is a granddaughter of Mrs. Philip Dreher of Stroudsburg.

Pictured with the McQuittys are their two sons: Timothy James, four months old, and Eric Andrew, six years old.

Now pastor of the El Bethel Presbyterian Church, McQuitty was born in Carriekfergus, Antrim County, North Ireland, in 1930, the youngest of four children. The family came to America in 1948, but finding the prospects disappointing were preparing to return to Ireland.

It was in Rochester, N. Y., that Eric attended the Youth Rally which changed the course of his life. Having accepted Christ, Eric, then 18, decided to prepare for the ministry.

Having quit school at 14 to go into the textile mills, first needed to finish high school, which he did in two years and passed his college boards to enter Bob Jones University in Greenville, S. C., in 1952.

The next year, he and Dorothy, also a student at Bob Jones University were married. After graduation they both taught school for a year before he entered Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. His wife continued teaching and he supplied pulpits weekends to "make it."

"God never failed me and he led me every step of the way," he said.

The young couple have made a trip to Ireland to visit his parents in Carriekfergus.

Dior Turns To Triangle For Skirts

By GABRIELLE SMITH

PARIS (AP)—The House of Dior Thursday proposed sculptured rectangular-looking skirts, which barely covered the knees, and low waists for the spring and summer fashion.

Designer Marc Bohan went back to the 1920s for inspiration for his dresses and took the mood of the 1930s for his suits.

Suits leaned to heavy tweeds with masculine checks and pin-stripes. The skirts were straight. Blouses fell to just below the waist and were not tucked into the skirt.

For afternoon, femininity showed with a white fluffy model called "Tenderness." Its low oval neck was trimmed in wide organza ruffles.

For evening Dior showed bead embroidery. One striking dress had a lattice work top made of rhinestone and a matching hairnet for the model's head.

Evening dresses featured big bows low on the back. Other long dresses looked like negligees trimmed with ruffles, which then trailed down to the floor.

Designers Philippe Vernet, who opened his own fashion house this season, emphasized rounded shoulders, marked the bosom and left waists loose in his spring and summer collection shown Thursday.

His hems are just below the knee, looking normally short. The key to the whole show was purity of line provided by a knowing cut.

The Wyckoff Shopper

“the friendly store”

A.B. Wyckoff

STROUDSBURG, PA.

I never realized it before, but our Wyckoff store has some fairly interesting names on its personnel roster. We have not one but TWO diamonds on the staff... Helen in Cosmetics, and Richard (spelled Dymond) in Plumbing. No wonder we're dazzled.

In our Sportswear department we have our very own Weaver—at least, on a “now and then” basis—a pretty girl named Peggy.

At the moment there's some pretty corny Valentine merchandise in our Men's Shop (described here yesterday) but corn or not, your salesman there will probably be Hay, better known as Harvey.

I think there are no trees on our staff, but Edna is a healthy, flourishing Bush... and there's nothing she'd like better than to show you all the beautiful towels, sheets, pillows and bedspreads in our January White Sale. With a minimum of beating around the you-know-what, she'll be delighted to sell you everything in sight, so come prepared.

In our children and Infant's department everything is lucky, thanks to a girl named Marion. She's not a MALE duck, of course, but she is definitely a Drake. And while we haven't any Storeys on our staff (either short or tall) we have two Fabels—Frieda in our Beauty Salon (Yes, Myrtle, it IS time for your new permanent!) and Laura in hosiery. (And have you seen those pale, mint green stockings on the clearance table?)

I'm not exactly sure what started me on this train of thought, but please, Conductor, put me off at the next station!

THESE ARE NEW and so inexpensive I thought you'd like to know: Towels, in chrome-like metal with black handle, priced at just 39c in our Gift department, a regular 59c value with markings up to five inches... Also, in the same department, Simtex dish towels in Delft pattern, the flowers being either brilliant Red, Blue, or Yellow on a natural background. These too are 39c.

New also, in time for Valentine giving, are the many red handbags that attract all eyes to our handbag department. There are sleek, smooth leathers at 7.98, and there are calf and other leathers at 12.50 and higher. We also have bright red wallets for as little as 3.75 and 5.00 plus tax. Another neat accessory for the red purse is a leather cigarette case in matching shade, with a matching lighter. And then, just to add the final, perfect touch, one might select a pair of Made-moisele pumps in shiny red patent. If you're not in the red at the moment, why not add new zip to your wardrobe with touches of red—from Wyckoff's, of course!

Come to think of it, red also caught my eye on the Lingerie clearance table. There I discovered a small size set of Baby Doll pajamas of brilliant red nylon under black lace. They have been marked down from 12.95 to 7.95, and there are at least two matching camisoles marked down from 5.95 to 2.95.

I remember when these first came in, and we advertised the half slip and camisole that could be worn as under-garments or as a cocktail dress. In fact, Kate Mullins modeled them for us at one of our fashion shows and never looked more stunning.

Eleanor Randolph points out that some of the new pill boxes in our jewelry department are particularly

THE CALL FROM MOSCOW

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

"WE WILL BURY YOU," growled the harsh voice at the other end of the line.

"WHAT!" cried Ed Bryson, hardly believing his ears.

"Your belief in God..." the voice went on. "...an out-worn superstition leading to foolish notions about democracy and freedom and human rights. Communism will correct this."

"Who do you think you're talking to?" blustered Ed.

"To you, Mr. Bryson. The Party needs you to liberate your countrymen. Encourage them to forget morality for it is a myth. Conscience, it is cowardice. Worship, it is weakness..."

"NO," Ed exploded! "NYET if you understand that better! We aren't going to forget the spiritual principles that make the Free World strong. Our kind of liberty is built on God's Truth—and you'll never bury That. Go sell your party line somewhere else. I'm on my way to Church!"

Of course, it was just a dream, Ed admits. (Too much pie at bedtime.)

And, thoughtfully, he adds—it shouldn't take a nightmare to make us realize what we believe—and how to preserve that Faith.

Pocono Young Adults Elect Permanent Officers

BARRETT — A game of tag on ice skates came to a crashing halt Wednesday night at the Buck Hill Skating Rink. Gary Schierda received a gash above his right eye. Dr. L. R. Furlong took three stitches to close it. Gary was reported on the mend.

Members of the Pocono Young Adults held the skating party prior to their election of officers. Gary is a member of the group.

After the skating party, permanent officers were elected around the fire in the golf house. Julius Schraat became president; Stanley Seese, vice president; MaryAnn Madar, secretary and Barbara Hendershot, treasurer.

The group announced final arrangements for their twist party. Called "Twist Around The Clock" it will feature Kiby Scott, disk jockey from radio station WARM, Scranton, with a collection of popular recordings. Records will be given as door prizes. Twisting begins at 8:30 p.m. in the Barrett Elementary School Auditorium and closes at 11:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, Barrett YMCA, are advisors to the group.

Possibly Best Game

Pocono Crushes Dunmore 78-57 For Ninth Victory

SWIFTWATER — Pocono Mountain High produced possibly its best game of the year Friday in crushing Dunmore 78-57.

It was simply a case of Pocono not being able to miss a shot, as the Cards rolled to their ninth victory against three losses.

The Cards of coach Harry Wertheimer put the game almost out of reach with 26 points in the first quarter and holding Dunmore to only 11.

John Ryan, who ended with 22 points, high of the game, had four of his 10 field goals in the first period. A. J. Bitter also had eight field period points.

P.V. Tops Hillers For First Victory

BRODHEADSVILLE — Pleasant Valley snapped a 12-game losing streak Friday with a 75-70 victory over Summit Hill.

It was also the first Black Diamond League win for coach Bill Frear's Bears, who moved into fifth place by virtue of the win, dropping Summit Hill into the cellar.

The Bears posted the victory by hanging up 46 points in the first half, for a 46-26 lead.

Kelchner's 40 Leads Panther Over Knights

PEN ARGYL — Big John Kelchner poured in 40 points Friday, as Hellertown downed Pen Argyl in a Lehigh-Northampton League game, 89-74.

Kelchner's output ran his seasonal total to 346 points and his career mark to 867 points.

Despite Kelchner's torrid pace, Pen Argyl led until the closing minute of the third period, when the Panthers tied the score, 61-61.

Hosler Trails
Rick Hosler trailed Kelchner, the league's leading point maker with 17.

Sophomore Dave Turzto had 11 field goals and four fouls for 26 points and Pen Argyl scoring honors.

Kelchner had 16 field goals and eight fouls.

Three other Pen Argyl players reached double figures. Roger Snyder had 18 points, Goefer Rader 13 and Dave Ulliana 10.

Hellertown took the JV game, 83-57.

Cuban Choice Over Thompson

NEW YORK (AP) — Old Federico Thompson won't get a chance to loaf Saturday night if Luis Rodriguez has his way in their television 10-round fight at Madison Square Garden.

"Thompson is a smart fighter and he can hit hard," Rodriguez, third-ranking welterweight contender from Cuba, said Friday.

"But he has to rest sometime in each round because his legs are gone."

"I'll beat him."

That seems to be the general feeling, too. Fleet-footed Luis, 25, is rated a 3-1 favorite over the 34-year-old, eighth-ranking Argentine who holds the South American welterweight title.

Thompson relies mostly on his power. He's still clever and shifty but doesn't care to expend his energy moving around the ring.

The bout will be nationally telecast (ABC TV, 10 p.m. EST). Scoring will be by the rounds system.

Heart Aitack Claims O'Neil

while Norb Ryan and Ralph Dunlap added two field goals each in the first eight minutes.

Dunlap Has 15
Dunlap, the smallest player on the Cards' starting five, finished with 15 points on six field goals and three foul shots. Most of Dunlap's field goals were on floating lay-ups.

John Ryan collected his total on 10 field goals and two free throws, while twin Norb had five field goals and three fouls for 13 points.

Ed Luck and Bittner had 10 points each, with Luck sharing the rebound duties with the Ryans and doing a great deal of the play making.

Charles Lalli, son of Dunmore coach Cosmo Lalli and Ed McCall had 21 points each for the losers. McCall had 18 of his points in the second half.

Clear Bench
Pocono, which leads the Pocono-Slate Belt League with a 3-1 record and a .225 rating, scored 20 or more points in every period but the last, when coach Harry Wertheimer cleared the bench. The Cards had a 66-36 lead at the end of the third quarter.

The Cards connected on 33 field goals, while Dunmore bagged 25. Pocono scored on 12 of 18 foul line points and Dunmore hit on seven of 12.

Dunmore won the junior varsity preliminary 37-22.
